

WINTER UNIFORMS TO BE DISTRIBUTED TODAY TO C. GUARDSMEN

"This Week Will Tell the Tale" of Border Service, Men Say.

Winter uniforms and overcoats will be issued to the District militiamen at the mobilization camp tomorrow. When the distribution of heavy clothing is completed, officers at the camp say, they will have complied with practically the last requirement for border service the War Department can make.

The officers and men today expressed the belief that "this week will tell the tale." They say they expect to be ordered to the Mexican border or back to their army before the close of this week.

Today marks the passing of ninety days since the militiamen were mustered into the service of the United States. Some of the officers today facetiously remarked: "That makes us eligible for admission to St. Elizabeth's, Walter Reed Hospital, Fort Leavenworth prison and Arlington Cemetery."

Regular Visit Camp.
Several regular army officers visited the camp today.

Although Secretary of War Baker stated several days ago that there was no doubt about the local citizen-soldiers being sent to the border, neither he nor any one else at the War Department will say when the orders may be expected.

The delay in ordering the militia to the border has already caused two lieutenants to resign from the militia and a number of other commissioned officers who have practically despaired of seeing the citizen-soldiers leave Washington.

In the first football game at the mobilization camp yesterday afternoon, Company D defeated the Sanitary Troop team by 2 to 0.

Several Face Court-Martial.
Private Frank Donohue, of Company I, was tried by a general court-martial on the charge of sleeping while on sentry duty. The findings in the case have been sent to Gen. Leonard Wood, commander of the Department of the East.

Thirteen other militiamen accused of minor infractions of military regulations, were tried by summary court-martial and given sentences ranging from ten to thirty days in the guard house.

Capt. E. W. Fullam, adjutant of the Third Regiment, was taken to his home in Washington yesterday afternoon from a badly sprained ankle, received when his horse became frightened and threw him heavily to the ground.

First Lieut. Charles Earl Smithson has been designated as acting adjutant of the regiment, while Lieut. William G. Bacon has been designated as acting adjutant of the Second Battalion.

The resignation of Lieut. William L. Tydings, of Company G, has been accepted by the War Department.

FUNERAL RITES FOR CAPITAL RESIDENTS

Mrs. Mary Ellen Rice.
Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Ellen Rice, wife of M. P. Rice, F street photographer, who died at her home yesterday afternoon, will be held at the residence, 632 Rock Creek Church road, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Rev. Paul Langhorne, pastor of the Potomac Baptist Church, will officiate. Interment will be made in Oak Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. James Mosher.
Funeral services for Mrs. James Mosher will be held from St. Patrick's Church tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Interment will be made in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Edward R. Mahoney.
The funeral of Edward R. Mahoney, who died suddenly at his home yesterday afternoon, will be held from the residence, 329 street southeast, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Interment will be private.

Charles A. Mansuy.
The funeral of Charles A. Mansuy will be held from the Church of the Holy Comforter on Tuesday morning. Requiem Mass will be celebrated at 9 o'clock.

James W. Robinson.
The funeral of James W. Robinson will be held from the residence, 1439 Morris road, Anacostia, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

THE WEATHER REPORT.
Forecast for the District of Columbia and Maryland for the night and Monday: moderate temperature; moderate northwest winds.

TEMPERATURES.
(U. S. Bureau.)
8 a. m. 57
9 a. m. 60
10 a. m. 62
11 a. m. 64

TIDE TABLE.
(U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey.)
High tides: 5:43 a. m., height 2.5;
9:09 p. m., height 2.7.
Low tides: 12:00 a. m., height 0.2;
12:23 p. m., height 0.1.

SUN AND MOON TABLE.
Sun rose: 5:56; Sun sets: 6:04
Moon rose 3:15 a. m.; Moon sets 4:36 p. m.
Light automobile lamps at 6:34 p. m.

CONSULT US AT ONCE
Dentistry in all its branches at most moderate prices. Painless methods. Why experiment? We know how—Established 20 years.
Dr. PATTON and Dr. LEONARD
N. E. Corner 9th & G Sts. N. W. Over Bank. Phone N. 1577.

LITTLE ENTHUSIASM SHOWN OVER STRIKE

New York Unionists' Response to Call Seems Lukewarm. Night Service Maintained.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—After eighteen days, the traction strike apparently is no nearer its end than it was at the start.

For the first time in more than two weeks, surface cars ran in Broadway until last night, and the Third avenue line maintained its night service without serious interference.

Trades union officials have reduced their estimates of the number of men expected to respond to the call for a general suspension of work from 800,000 to 250,000.

Timothy Healy, president of the Eclectic Firemen, said not more than half of the 5,000 members of that union would respond.

E. J. Wile, president of the Cloak, Skirt and Suit Makers' Association, gave the opinion that a general sympathetic strike was "all a bluff."

A suspension of work by the longshoremen seems to be doubtful owing to the fact that they do not expect a general suspension.

In Building Trades.
In the building trades, those other than carpenters may suspend, while carpenters will not quit unless forced to, as they are unprepared owing to a four months' strike just ended.

The teamsters may suspend where men are employed in work associated with traction companies.

Brewers say suspension is not expected because of contracts and readiness of the employers to furnish transportation to their employees.

The printers and pressmen may quit in some of the book and job printing plants. Newspaper offices will not be affected.

On the whole there seems to be a rather lukewarm feeling for a sympathetic strike among many branches of various local unions.

Notwithstanding this attitude final plans for Wednesday's general sympathetic strike of all union labor organizations were discussed at an important conference in the Continental Hotel.

Ernest Boehm, secretary of the Central Federated Union, declared that the order for a general suspension of work in sympathy with the striking carmen is designed to affect absolutely to patronize the "scab" cars," he said.

"We'll have a strike that will affect any and every thing. It will include men employed in the lighting system, the waiters and the men employed in providing the food supply to New York."

"Let People Go Hungry."
Then with a laugh he added: "It will be good for their digestion. It will be good for their hunger."

Scores of local unions held meetings today to determine the question of participation in the proposed general strike.

The declaration of Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, that the principle of unionism is at stake in the traction fight has been answered by Shonts, president of the Interborough, with a more vehement declaration than he had previously made, that he, as the head of the interborough system, was and always had been in favor of unionism.

Mr. Shonts reiterated his belief that the fight was against the attempt of William B. Fitzgerald, general organizer of the Amalgamated, to enforce the principle of his union or none.

A dispatch from Washington from Gompers warned the strikers that they must remain within the law and commit no violence.

N. Y. DRIVERS REFUSE TO SERVE MILK
Thousands of Families Do Not Get Supply.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Four hundred and ten of the wagon drivers of the Borden Milk Company went on strike this morning.

Three thousand eight hundred cases of quart bottles of milk were not delivered. The men demand higher wages, and their leaders say their strike has no connection with the sympathetic strike of the general trades union recommended by the Central Federated Union in support of the street car strike.

The men who handle the milk as it comes from the dairymen's Association in New York and surrounding States to the stations of the distributing company, were prepared in the early hours of the day to turn it over to the drivers as usual, but the latter refused to take the wagons out of the barns.

The officials of the company declare that the people families in Harlem, the Bronx, and Washington Heights are without milk.

The officials of the company declare that the people families in Harlem, the Bronx, and Washington Heights are without milk.

Egg Fools Snake.
LA CROSSE, Wis., Sept. 24.—When Mrs. Walter Davies, near McGregor, went into her poultry house to gather eggs she found a big black snake curled up in the nest. The reptile was killed, and in its stomach was found a white china nest egg.

Gude's Beautiful Flowers
—and artistic floral decorations are best for fall weddings. 124 F St.—Adv.

Says Wall Cuts Expose Bedroom

Sabine Family Defendants in Suit by New York Woman.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Mrs. Thomas Gerald Condon, well known in social circles, who has an elaborate country home at Tuxedo Park, although she spends her summers at Algonquin, Rhinecock Hills, L. I., has begun suit against various members of the Sabine family because "holes" have been cut in the party wall back of her town house at 35 East Seventy-sixth street, which enable dwellers in apartments at 359 Madison avenue to look into her bedroom, open air porch, and dining room. She asks the supreme court for an injunction against the "holes" in the party wall.

Mrs. Condon, whose husband is a well-known figure in the mining industry, has filed her suit against William F. Sabine, Jr., Edith Sabine Lewis, Elizabeth H. Sabine, Mary T. Sabine, Alice W. Sabine, Philip S. Sabine, G. Arthur Sabine, and Samuel Sabine. Various members of this family made their home for years in an old-fashioned dwelling at 359 Madison avenue, near East Seventy-sixth street, which was recently torn down to make way for apartments.

In her suit Mrs. Condon calls the new building adjoining her four-story dwelling a "tenement."

Milks Cow for Suffrage.
GREENBURG, Pa., Sept. 24.—Suffragists at the Westmoreland county fair were selling refreshments, and it was exhausted. A Scotland school teacher volunteered to milk one of the cows on exhibition if granted permission. With bucket and stool, she soon opened the way to a new invasion of Roumania.

MILTON R. NEY
Women's Specialty Store
801 PA. AVE. N. W. The Popular Price Corner

Washington's Greatest Display Stylish Millinery at Popular Prices

Hats pictured here are exact models in our Millinery Department.

Best in Town for the Price
TRIMMED HATS
That you won't duplicate anywhere else in Washington for less than $10

VELVET UNTRIMMED SHAPES
$1.98 $2.98 $3.98
Up to $9.98
Other Trimmed Hats $2.98 Up to $15

Greatest Display Stylish Fall Apparel in Washington
Be at NEY'S on Monday To Select Your FALL SUIT, COAT OR DRESS

as prices on merchandise are soaring and the longer you delay in purchasing, the more you will have to pay later.

1,000 NEWEST FALL SUITS
$14.75, $16.50, $17.75, $19.75, $22.50, $24.75, $29.75.

1,000 NEW FALL COATS
Plush Coats and Cloth Coats (Including Mixtures and Fancy Cloths.)
$5.98, $6.98, $10, $12.50, $13.75, $15, $16.50, $19.75 up to $65.

500 TAFFETA SATIN & SERGE DRESSES
$5.98, $7.98, $10, $12.50, $13.75, $15, $16.50, $19.75 up to $35.

MILTON R. NEY, 801 Pa. Ave. N. W.

AUSRTIA TURNS FOE IN TRANSYLVANIA

(Continued from First Page.)
The Serbians are again on the soil of their own country, having crossed the frontier north of Florina, and are driving the Bulgarians before them toward Monastir. Capture of Florina gave the allies possession of the whole railroad from Saloniki around Lake Ostrov to the frontier, which allows for the rapid forwarding of ammunition and supplies.

At the southern end of the Balkan theater of war the Bulgarians are beset from one end of their front to the other, and the week has seen an uninterrupted series of victories for the allies. On the west the Italians are holding the Albanian front, protecting their allies from any flank movement by the Bulgarians.

The Serbians are again on the soil of their own country, having crossed the frontier north of Florina, and are driving the Bulgarians before them toward Monastir. Capture of Florina gave the allies possession of the whole railroad from Saloniki around Lake Ostrov to the frontier, which allows for the rapid forwarding of ammunition and supplies.

BERLIN, Sept. 24.—Roumania's plans for the early conquest of Transylvania have been demoralized by Field Marshal Mackensen's striking the fighting from the Dobruja and victories, both in the Dobruja and the northwestern frontier of Roumania.

The Roumanians' left wing in Transylvania has been driven back twelve miles from the important industrial town of Petroseni, occupied by the Roumanians in the last ten days of the fighting.

The German war office this afternoon announced the capture of the strongly fortified Vulkan pass opening the way to a new invasion of Roumania.

WARM WINTER DUE, SAYS OLD PROPHET

Don't Worry About Coal Price, Advice of "Pappy" Leet.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24.—The thin rays of dawn were penetrating the darkness of the night when "Pappy" Leet, the eighty-year-old weather prognosticator of Homerton, squinted with his good eye at the heavens.

The prophet's left eye was shot out at the battle of Todd's Tavern, Va., during the civil war.

"Well," ruminated the predictor of the "disturbances" as he seated himself on the top railing of the barnyard fence, "the sun crosses the line at six minutes after 4 and the wind is in the south-east. Here I've been predicting winter weather for high on sixty years, and I never seen the signs so promising."

Just then Joe March, "Pappy's" farmhand, came up the path leading through the barnyard after having milked the cows.

"What's the matter, Mr. Leet?" March asked. "Something wrong with the weather?"

"Oh, no," the prognosticator replied. "I hereby make this prophecy to the entire world—that Philadelphia county will witness a warm, open winter. How do I know? Why, because the sun crossed the line at six minutes after 4 and the wind is in the south-east or day were still in progress."

Defences of the only city were being perfected by Gen. Jacinto Trevino, General Trevino's wife, sister, and five children, who came here from Chihuahua City, during the family taken refuge in the United States, were preparing to leave today for the Pacific coast for a visit.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24.—The thin rays of dawn were penetrating the darkness of the night when "Pappy" Leet, the eighty-year-old weather prognosticator of Homerton, squinted with his good eye at the heavens.

The prophet's left eye was shot out at the battle of Todd's Tavern, Va., during the civil war.

"Well," ruminated the predictor of the "disturbances" as he seated himself on the top railing of the barnyard fence, "the sun crosses the line at six minutes after 4 and the wind is in the south-east. Here I've been predicting winter weather for high on sixty years, and I never seen the signs so promising."

Just then Joe March, "Pappy's" farmhand, came up the path leading through the barnyard after having milked the cows.

"What's the matter, Mr. Leet?" March asked. "Something wrong with the weather?"

"Oh, no," the prognosticator replied. "I hereby make this prophecy to the entire world—that Philadelphia county will witness a warm, open winter. How do I know? Why, because the sun crossed the line at six minutes after 4 and the wind is in the south-east or day were still in progress."

Defences of the only city were being perfected by Gen. Jacinto Trevino, General Trevino's wife, sister, and five children, who came here from Chihuahua City, during the family taken refuge in the United States, were preparing to leave today for the Pacific coast for a visit.

VILLA DANDITS RAID MINES IN CHIHUAHUA

(Continued from First Page.)
This caused no small alarm among the Mexican settlements where Villa's army has in every instance attacked on the dates designated, but caused no apprehension among the American military camps, where there were said to be sufficient forces to handle any situation which might arise from the Mexican side of the border.

If these warnings of Villa's intended movements were correct it would mean an impending raid into Sonora, where the forces of Gen. P. Elias Calles are already engaged with large numbers of hostile Yaqui Indians.

Only routine dispatches were received by morning from Chihuahua sent late yesterday indicating order was being restored and that trials of many civilians alleged to have been engaged in aiding Villa's attack on Hidalgo day were still in progress.

Defences of the only city were being perfected by Gen. Jacinto Trevino, General Trevino's wife, sister, and five children, who came here from Chihuahua City, during the family taken refuge in the United States, were preparing to leave today for the Pacific coast for a visit.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24.—The thin rays of dawn were penetrating the darkness of the night when "Pappy" Leet, the eighty-year-old weather prognosticator of Homerton, squinted with his good eye at the heavens.

The prophet's left eye was shot out at the battle of Todd's Tavern, Va., during the civil war.

"Well," ruminated the predictor of the "disturbances" as he seated himself on the top railing of the barnyard fence, "the sun crosses the line at six minutes after 4 and the wind is in the south-east. Here I've been predicting winter weather for high on sixty years, and I never seen the signs so promising."

Just then Joe March, "Pappy's" farmhand, came up the path leading through the barnyard after having milked the cows.

"What's the matter, Mr. Leet?" March asked. "Something wrong with the weather?"

"Oh, no," the prognosticator replied. "I hereby make this prophecy to the entire world—that Philadelphia county will witness a warm, open winter. How do I know? Why, because the sun crossed the line at six minutes after 4 and the wind is in the south-east or day were still in progress."

Defences of the only city were being perfected by Gen. Jacinto Trevino, General Trevino's wife, sister, and five children, who came here from Chihuahua City, during the family taken refuge in the United States, were preparing to leave today for the Pacific coast for a visit.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24.—The thin rays of dawn were penetrating the darkness of the night when "Pappy" Leet, the eighty-year-old weather prognosticator of Homerton, squinted with his good eye at the heavens.

The prophet's left eye was shot out at the battle of Todd's Tavern, Va., during the civil war.

"Well," ruminated the predictor of the "disturbances" as he seated himself on the top railing of the barnyard fence, "the sun crosses the line at six minutes after 4 and the wind is in the south-east. Here I've been predicting winter weather for high on sixty years, and I never seen the signs so promising."

Just then Joe March, "Pappy's" farmhand, came up the path leading through the barnyard after having milked the cows.

"What's the matter, Mr. Leet?" March asked. "Something wrong with the weather?"

"Oh, no," the prognosticator replied. "I hereby make this prophecy to the entire world—that Philadelphia county will witness a warm, open winter. How do I know? Why, because the sun crossed the line at six minutes after 4 and the wind is in the south-east or day were still in progress."

Defences of the only city were being perfected by Gen. Jacinto Trevino, General Trevino's wife, sister, and five children, who came here from Chihuahua City, during the family taken refuge in the United States, were preparing to leave today for the Pacific coast for a visit.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24.—The thin rays of dawn were penetrating the darkness of the night when "Pappy" Leet, the eighty-year-old weather prognosticator of Homerton, squinted with his good eye at the heavens.

The prophet's left eye was shot out at the battle of Todd's Tavern, Va., during the civil war.

"Well," ruminated the predictor of the "disturbances" as he seated himself on the top railing of the barnyard fence, "the sun crosses the line at six minutes after 4 and the wind is in the south-east. Here I've been predicting winter weather for high on sixty years, and I never seen the signs so promising."

Just then Joe March, "Pappy's" farmhand, came up the path leading through the barnyard after having milked the cows.

"What's the matter, Mr. Leet?" March asked. "Something wrong with the weather?"

"Oh, no," the prognosticator replied. "I hereby make this prophecy to the entire world—that Philadelphia county will witness a warm, open winter. How do I know? Why, because the sun crossed the line at six minutes after 4 and the wind is in the south-east or day were still in progress."

Defences of the only city were being perfected by Gen. Jacinto Trevino, General Trevino's wife, sister, and five children, who came here from Chihuahua City, during the family taken refuge in the United States, were preparing to leave today for the Pacific coast for a visit.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24.—The thin rays of dawn were penetrating the darkness of the night when "Pappy" Leet, the eighty-year-old weather prognosticator of Homerton, squinted with his good eye at the heavens.

The prophet's left eye was shot out at the battle of Todd's Tavern, Va., during the civil war.

"Well," ruminated the predictor of the "disturbances" as he seated himself on the top railing of the barnyard fence, "the sun crosses the line at six minutes after 4 and the wind is in the south-east. Here I've been predicting winter weather for high on sixty years, and I never seen the signs so promising."

Just then Joe March, "Pappy's" farmhand, came up the path leading through the barnyard after having milked the cows.

DISTRICT MEN BACK FROM SYLVIA TRIPS

Resignation of Lieutenant Commander Morhart Announced.

The District contingent on the United States ship Sylvia, which has been on a five-weeks cruise on the Potomac river and Chesapeake bay, returned to Washington this morning. Thirty-five men and five officers comprised the party from this city. The cruise was for those of the naval militiamen of the District who did not make the cruise on the United States ship Illinois.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24.—The thin rays of dawn were penetrating the darkness of the night when "Pappy" Leet, the eighty-year-old weather prognosticator of Homerton, squinted with his good eye at the heavens.

The prophet's left eye was shot out at the battle of Todd's Tavern, Va., during the civil war.

"Well," ruminated the predictor of the "disturbances" as he seated himself on the top railing of the barnyard fence, "the sun crosses the line at six minutes after 4 and the wind is in the south-east. Here I've been predicting winter weather for high on sixty years, and I never seen the signs so promising."

Just then Joe March, "Pappy's" farmhand, came up the path leading through the barnyard after having milked the cows.

"What's the matter, Mr. Leet?" March asked. "Something wrong with the weather?"

"Oh, no," the prognosticator replied. "I hereby make this prophecy to the entire world—that Philadelphia county will witness a warm, open winter. How do I know? Why, because the sun crossed the line at six minutes after 4 and the wind is in the south-east or day were still in progress."

Defences of the only city were being perfected by Gen. Jacinto Trevino, General Trevino's wife, sister, and five children, who came here from Chihuahua City, during the family taken refuge in the United States, were preparing to leave today for the Pacific coast for a visit.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24.—The thin rays of dawn were penetrating the darkness of the night when "Pappy" Leet, the eighty-year-old weather prognosticator of Homerton, squinted with his good eye at the heavens.

The prophet's left eye was shot out at the battle of Todd's Tavern, Va., during the civil war.

"Well," ruminated the predictor of the "disturbances" as he seated himself on the top railing of the barnyard fence, "the sun crosses the line at six minutes after 4 and the wind is in the south-east. Here I've been predicting winter weather for high on sixty years, and I never seen the signs so promising."

Just then Joe March, "Pappy's" farmhand, came up the path leading through the barnyard after having milked the cows.

"What's the matter, Mr. Leet?" March asked. "Something wrong with the weather?"

"Oh, no," the prognosticator replied. "I hereby make this prophecy to the entire world—that Philadelphia county will witness a warm, open winter. How do I know? Why, because the sun crossed the line at six minutes after 4 and the wind is in the south-east or day were still in progress."

Defences of the only city were being perfected by Gen. Jacinto Trevino, General Trevino's wife, sister, and five children, who came here from Chihuahua City, during the family taken refuge in the United States, were preparing to leave today for the Pacific coast for a visit.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24.—The thin rays of dawn were penetrating the darkness of the night when "Pappy" Leet, the eighty-year-old weather prognosticator of Homerton, squinted with his good eye at the heavens.

The prophet's left eye was shot out at the battle of Todd's Tavern, Va., during the civil war.

"Well," ruminated the predictor of the "disturbances" as he seated himself on the top railing of the barnyard fence, "the sun crosses the line at six minutes after 4 and the wind is in the south-east. Here I've been predicting winter weather for high on sixty years, and I never seen the signs so promising."

Just then Joe March, "Pappy's" farmhand, came up the path leading through the barnyard after having milked the cows.

"What's the matter, Mr. Leet?" March asked. "Something wrong with the weather?"

"Oh, no," the prognosticator replied. "I hereby make this prophecy to the entire world—that Philadelphia county will witness a warm, open winter. How do I know? Why, because the sun crossed the line at six minutes after 4 and the wind is in the south-east or day were still in progress."

Defences of the only city were being perfected by Gen. Jacinto Trevino, General Trevino's wife, sister, and five children, who came here from Chihuahua City, during the family taken refuge in the United States, were preparing to leave today for the Pacific coast for a visit.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24.—The thin rays of dawn were penetrating the darkness of the night when "Pappy" Leet, the eighty-year-old weather prognosticator of Homerton, squinted with his good eye at the heavens.

The prophet's left eye was shot out at the battle of Todd's Tavern, Va., during the civil war.

"Well," ruminated the predictor of the "disturbances" as he seated himself on the top railing of the barnyard fence, "the sun crosses the line at six minutes after 4 and the wind is in the south-east. Here I've been predicting winter weather for high on sixty years, and I never seen the signs so promising."